Editorial
Larissa McLean Davies and Wayne Sawyer

Confirming Identity Using Drama Pedagogy: English Teachers’ Creative Response to High-Stakes Literacy Testing
Janet Dutton and Kathy Rushton

NAPLAN: The Writing is on the Wall but Who is Actually Reading It?
Paul Gardner

Secondary School English Teachers Caught in the NAPLAN Fray: Effects of the Disparate Responses
Sam Simpson Reeves, Beryl Exley and Julie Dillon-Wallace

Learning-driven Data: Tracking Improvement Within a Formative Assessment Cycle in English
Timothy Bibbens

Sparking Ideas: English Teacher Use of Online Tools for Professional Learning
Helen Woodford and Jane Southcott

Why Can’t it Mark This One? A Qualitative Analysis of Student Writing Rejected by an Automated Essay Scoring System
Nathanael Reinertsen

Imaginative Writing and Its Assessment in Secondary School English
Jennifer Dove

Silent Reading and Discussion of Self-Selected Books in the Contemporary Classroom
Margaret Merga

Commonplace Books: Writing and a Sense of Self in the 21st Century English Classroom
Pauline Griffiths

PERSPECTIVES FROM THE PAST

Extract from: Before the Fall - 1989: A Pre-Lapsarian View of Literacy Education Before the National Curriculum, NAPLAN, Genre etc., Graeme Withers

Introduction to Achievements in Writing
Wayne Sawyer and Larissa McLean Davies

Achievements in Writing at 16+
John Dixon and Leslie Stratta

Reading & Viewing
Deb McPherson

AATE Matters